

Culture and Equity

Equity means, “Everyone is equal, and we all have the equal rights.” Culture is what we belong to and what we are. That is what equity and culture are about.

In the early days of United States of America (USA), there was a problem of slavery and racism. Even today there are problems of equity like racism. If we want to fix these problems, we will have to get rid of racism. This will make us all equal without worrying about our skin color.

In the beginning of the USA, there were only people with similar culture values but then other people who were from different culture started to come to the USA. Now there are different people and different cultures in the USA. This is how culture has changed over time.

Imagine, if USA has racial equality and cultural freedom, then USA would be one of the best countries to live in. I hope we achieve this dream.
